

SEND WALLACE TO REFORM SCHOOL

Attorneys Get Acquainted With Coram Nobis Proceedings.

Everett Wallace will resume his interrupted trip to the Indiana reformatory, which was delayed by application for a writ of error, coram nobis. Motion to quash the application, made by Deputy Prosec. George Schock, was sustained by Judge Montgomery in superior court yesterday afternoon.

The motion to quash was made on the ground that the application did not set forth sufficient grounds for issuance of the writ, since no duress or fraud or unfair advantage taken was charged by the defendant. There was no showing in the application that the defendant intended to plead not guilty, but Wallace asked that he be allowed to withdraw his plea of guilty and substitute the other for it.

Pleaded Guilty. Judgment in the case was rendered on July 14, when Wallace pleaded guilty to a charge of grand larceny. Affidavits in the possession of Deputy Prosec. Schock set forth that the prisoner requested the turnkey at the county jail to arrange with the prosecutor to have him released into the community.

Wallace brought into the court that he might plead guilty and begin serving his sentence rather than in jail all summer awaiting action by the court. He apparently began his sentence, that much later. This same statement was made in the affidavit of Joseph Wyganski, who held by the deputy prosecutor for use in the motion to quash was overruled.

During the argument of Prosec. Schwartz and his deputy, and Samuel Fowell, attorney for the defendant, it was brought out that the coram nobis proceeding is practically obsolete in this country, having been supplanted by the use of motions for new trials, petitions for appeals, and other provisions of modern law. The ancient writ was instituted in England hundreds of years ago in order to give opportunity for appeal which was provided in no other way. It is used in Indiana, however, as a matter of common law, since there is no statute to cover the point.

This is the first time in the recollection of local attorneys that the coram nobis writ has been asked in this country, and only a few such cases are on record in this state.

through the haze. A shout over the radio phone had told the men at the station the Blimp was coming. Little figures ran out over the flying field. On the bay small boats and launches were scattered about like chips in a tub.

Evans started overside at the field, then the rudder swung and the airship, now tipping down by the head and sinking fast despite her roaring motors and the angle of the lifting planes, turned out toward the narrow bay. Her commander came climbing back again. "Throw over your batteries," he called to the radio man. With a knife slash the operator cut the wires and removed the heavy box to the cockpit and it went hurtling down to land with a flash in the water. The surface appeared to be leaping upward. The ship was dropping fast but there was little sensation save the rush of the wind. It was a swift glide down a steep slope.

Land Safely. "Life preservers," Evans called above the dying roar of the motors as they were cut down. The passengers began to struggle out of the parachute harness in which they had been rigged for safety's sake and the engineer leaped first to let free all the gasoline in the tanks, then reached out the jackets.

Foot by foot the slope of the fall steepened. Then with a final rush, the nose of the big gas bag struck water, the front end of the car plunged down into it to the cockpit rail, a bumping lurch shook her and the gas bag went toppling to the side. But the fate of the bag was full and the stern of the car still rode above the surface. Only a splashing wave from the plunge had reached any but the forward cockpit.

A last turn of the starboard propeller tore a great hole in the big fabric but the ship was riding without having even ducked her engine under.

"Well, we're down," said Evans in a casual tone. "Stick to the ship."

RUSSIAN SOVIETS REFUSE TO CEASE WAR WITH POLAND

Bolshevik Government Replies to Note From British Officials.

By Associated Press: LONDON, July 21.—The refusal of the Russian soviet government to cease war against Poland at the behest of Great Britain is contained in a Moscow wireless dispatch received here Wednesday. The refusal also constitutes an appeal to the workers and peasants of soviet Russia and the Ukraine. It is signed by Premier Lenin, Minister of War Trotsky, Foreign Minister Tchitcherin and Commissioner of Justice Kurski, and says:

"The British government addressed a proposal to us July 11 to cease war against Poland and begin peace negotiations with Poland and other border states, promising that the Polish troops, in case of an armistice being concluded, would retreat to a frontier marked last year by the peace conference.

"In the same note it was proposed that Gen. Wrangel and his Crimean army should be permitted to remain in the Crimea, and that the Polish commissaries, answer by refusal.

Carry on Negotiations. "If England had not desired war she would have stopped supplying Poland with munitions and money. Poland is carrying on negotiations with us as a concession to her working masses. Lord Curzon, the British foreign secretary, places it upon the League of Nations, in whose name he is making the proposal, but Poland enters into the composition of this league, Poland who commenced a robber war against us.

"All the members of the league, especially France and England and America, are bound hand in hand in this provocative war of Poland against Russia and the Ukraine.

"Our refusal of hostile mediation does not mean that we have altered our policy towards Poland. Moscow more than once has proposed peace to Warsaw, and if she will now appeal to us directly, peaceful relations will be established between Russia and Poland sooner, better and more substantially in this way."

POLAND MAY APPLY TO "RED" LEADERS FOR TREATY TERMS. By Associated Press: LONDON, July 21.—Poland has been told to apply to the Russian soviet government for an armistice in order to test the sincerity of the soviet's statement that Russia is willing to make peace with Poland.

The British note, which was dispatched to Moscow Tuesday, assumes that the soviet is ready to make peace, although some doubts put forward cast some doubt on this. In the meantime the Russian mission, which is at present at Reval, will not proceed to England until the question at issue is settled.

By Associated Press: INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 21.—Republican members of the senate meeting in caucus Wednesday night to frame a legislative program for the remainder of the special session of the Indiana general assembly, carried their deliberations into the late hours.
